this volume examines the social and political and economic factors that have contributed to the rise of terrorism in pakistan employing an historical and critical terrorism studies perspective

originally published in 1970 germans and jews brings together george l mosse's thoughts on a critical time in german history when thinkers on both the left and the right shared a common goal in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. intellectuals across the political spectrum aimed to solve the problems of contemporary society by creating a force that would eliminate both state marxism and bourgeois society. a third force beyond communism and capitalism this pervasive turn in ideology had profound effects on german history in mosse's reading left wing political efforts became increasingly unrelated to reality while the right finally discovered in fascism the force it had been seeking this innovative perspective has implications for understanding not only the rise of fascism and nazism in germany but also the rise and fall of the new left in the united states and europe which was occurring at the time of mosse's writing. a new critical introduction by sarah wobick segev research associate at the university of hamburg places mosse's work in its historical and intellectual contexts and draws lessons for students and scholars today.

a concise overview of this multidisciplinary field presenting key concepts central issues and current research along with concrete examples and case studies the emergence of the environmental humanities as an academic discipline early in the twenty first century reflects the growing conviction that environmental problems cannot be solved by science and technology alone this book offers a concise overview of this new multidisciplinary field presenting concepts issues current research concrete examples and case studies. robert emmett and david nye show how humanists by offering constructive knowledge as well as negative critique can improve our understanding of such environmental problems as global warming species extinction and over consumption of the earth's resources they trace the genealogy of environmental humanities from european australian and american initiatives also showing its cross pollination by postcolonial and feminist theories. emmett and nye consider a concept of place not synonymous with localism the risks of ecotourism and the cultivation of wild areas they discuss the decoupling of energy use and progress and point to oecd countries for examples of sustainable development they explain the potential for science to do both good and harm examine dark visions of planetary collapse and describe more positive possibilities alternative practices including localization and degrowth finally they examine the theoretical impact of new materialism feminism postcolonial criticism animal studies and queer ecology on the environmental humanities.
